SLEEPING WEAZEL ANNOUNCES DOUBLES, DEMONS, AND DREAMERS: *a two-week theatre, drag/cabaret, solo suitcase performance extravaganza

Boston, Mass., April 7, 2014 — On June 12-21 at 7:30 pm, multimedia theatre company Sleeping Weazel presents its final event of the season, a four-part festival featuring new plays in rep by Kenneth Prestininzi and Adara Meyers. Prestininzi's play, Ugmo and Eenie Go Down the Ruski Hole, which opens during Pride Week, explores a blend of performance styles as the joy of homosexual love unfolds amidst the dark underpinnings of war. Paired with category-defying, gender-bending singer Johnny Blazes, the evening blends astonishment with heartbreak, and celebration with sorrow. Meyers' play, Talk To At Me, a comedy of bad manners, zooms in on the term spoiled yuppie while also providing the most amusing stream of non-sequiturs to emerge from the millennial generation's malaise. Beth Nixon's solo suitcase performance show, Lava Fossil, sets the tone via story, suitcase surprises, and an unforgettable balloon ride.
